The threat of small and medium-sized enterprises in cyberspace

Enormous exposure, huge losses, sensitive information and negligence. This is how the small and medium-sized enterprises in cyberspace could be described in short. It employs nearly 2 million people and despite his steadily growing numbers and earnings the SME's nevertheless invests very little in preventing incidents and investigates even less of them. Could there be a paradigm shift at a company without suffering millions of damages? What to do with the current lack of trust, which leads to a multitude of unexplored problems? The fight for IT security professionals is intense...
