Data on international migration in Turkey and its limitations

2019. november 22., péntek 15:45 (20 perc)

Turkey, currently as a host country for approximately 4 million refugees, still has some issues about migration governance and migration data creation, which is needed to be improved if it is considered as a serious problem in near future. In this paper, data limitations and the reasons why the lack of current data collection system in the field of international migration in Turkey will be discussed. Before addressing this issue, the current immigration data and statistics in Turkey will be analysed.
